GOV. WILSON GETS OVATION

Several Hundred Alexandrians Meet Him At the Station.

HEARTY HANDSHAKES.

Some Who Had Gathered to Welcome President-Elect Were Former College Acquaintances.

The programme which had been planned for the greeting of Woodrow Wilson, President-elect of the United States, when the train bearing him reached the union passenger station yesterday afternoon was carried out in every particular.Mayor Fisher and many other city officials and representative people were at the station where a huge crowd had gathered, including many women, to welcome to his native state the man whom the people of the country delight to honor, and especially those of the Old Dominion, who are justly proud of her son.

About half-past three o'clock the Chesapeake and Ohio train appeared in sight a short distance north of this city, and almost simultaneously the bell in the steeple of the City Hall, as well as those at the fire engine houses, began to peal forth, while steam whistles added to the salute to the President-elect.

A few later the train rolled into the station, where hurrahs went up and handkerchiefs fluttered.

Mr. Wilson did not make any speech as was expected.

As soon as the train stopped Representative Carlin, who was among those on board the train, came forward and said: " My fellow-citizens, I regret to advise you that our distinguished fellow-citizen, the President-elect, will be unable to address you, as he had expected and as he had desired, but has kindly consented to bow his acknowledgement and his appreciation." With this brief introduction Mr. Wilson doffed his hat several times to the crowd from the rear of the last car of the train.

The spectators surged forward to grasp his hand, and Mr. Wilson removed one of his gloves and was kept busy handshaking until the train pulled out, after a stop of about five minutes.

Among those who came forward to grasp the hand of the President-elect were a number of women. The first to greet him was Mayor Thomas A. Fisher. Mr. Wilson had his usual smile on his face during the five minutes he was engaged in the task of handshaking. Before this begun Representative Carlin said: "I want to present the real President of the United States," whereupon Mrs. Wilson appeared upon the platform and smilingly bowed the acknowledgment. She was the cynosure of all eyes and attracted almost as much attention as her husband. Afterward she retired to the car, and from the window bowed acknowledgments of greeting from both men and women in the crowd. Mrs. Wilson appeared greatly pleased at the ovation. Among those with the President-elect on the platform was Senator Claude A. Swanson.

Just as the train pulled out of the station three cheers were given for Mr. Wilson, and Mr. Swanson also was given an ovation.

The departure of the train bearing Mr. Wilson and party from Trenton and his arrival at Philadelphia were described in yesterday's Gazette. The run to Baltimore and Washington were without incident. Upon reaching the union depot at the latter place there was a stop of seven minutes while engines were being changed. A number of prominent congressmen and District of Columbia officials were present to greet the President-elect. The train was soon on its way to Alexandria where the scenes described above were enacted.

Governor Wilson's train was behind time when it reached Charlottesville where it was joined by two special cars of distinguished Virginians.

In the private car of President W. H. White, of Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad, were Governor Milliam Hodges Mann and Mrs. Mann, Lieutenant-Gov. EMyson John K. Branch, of Richmond, and Robert Parrish, of Covington.

Woodrow Wilson.

In former Lieutenant-Governor Joseps E. Willard's private car Ranger, were former Governor A. J. Montague, R. L. Montague, Richard E. Byrd, Speaker of the House of Delegates, C. V. Meredith, John Garland Pollard, H. M. Smith, and John Stewart Bryan.

The train had been saluted at every town on the route from Alexandria to Charlottesville. The train reached Staunton at 8:25 o'clock, three quarters of an hour later than they had expected to arrive. Several thousand people squeezed themselves into the C. & O. station to greet Mr. Wilson. A squad of Virginia militia and a squad of police from Washington kept back the crowd which pressed forward to the train when it came to a stop. A path was cleared for the next President through the station. Eyes peered for a glimpse of the distinguished guest of the city, but he appeared not.

With Mrs. Wilson he quickly left his private car by way of the rear plat form. They were escorted by Mayor Wayt to a closed automobile, which disappeared toward the manse. But the brass bands knew he was in Staunton. They struck up Dixie. The crowd took the cue and cheered.

With Governor Mann as their companion, Governor and Mrs. Wilson were conveyed to the manse. They were met at the gate by Rev. Dr. A. M. Fraser, who escorted them to the porch, where Mrs. Fraser added her welcome. The party then entered the house.

Almost the entire population of Staunton had gathehred about the station and along the streets to welcome the President-elect. Not only Staunto nians but thousands of others from all over the county were there.

The welcome home to the parsonage was typically Southern. At the moment when the present pastor clasped hands on the threshold of his house with the son of the former pastor a band on the sidewalk struck up "Home, Sweet Home." It was the "Stonewall Band," of greate historic fame, for it had been organized to play the music for Stonewall Jackson's brigade, and two of those who played to welcome the President-elect had fifed in the battles of the great Confederate leader. As Mrs. Wilson, a moment later than the President-elect, came up to the porch to be received in the arms of the pastor's wife, the band of aged veterans switched their tune to "Away Down South in Dixie."

The torchlight parade through the town, which Mr. and Mrs. Wilson largely missed, was a spectacular affair in which most of the 5,000 participants wore masks and fantastic costumes.

Immediately after Governor Wilson left the station, members of the reception committee took the members of the Governor's party to the homes in which they were to be entertained. Former Lieut-Gov. Echols took Governor and Mrs. Mann to his home. Speaker Byrd was entertained by Wm. A. Prat tand Mr. and Mrs. George Gordon Battle went to the home of Mrs. Armistead C. Gordon, former Governor Montague was entertained by A. F. Robertson, Harry St. George Tucker, by George M. Tucker. As a matter of fact, the whole city kept open house.

A great arch with the words "Welcome Home" outlined in incandescent bulbs form the gateway through which people of Staunton welcomed home their distinguished native son. Preparations under way for nearly two weeks to make the home-coming a great Virginia occasion had been completed early today and Staunton, despite lowering clouds and a slight drizzle, presented the appearance of a city prepared for the greatest occasion of its history.

The parade to be reviewed by the

STAUNTON IS IN HOLIDAY ATTIRE

Governor Wilson Passes Day Pleasantly in Place of His Birth.

OLD ACQUAINTANCES.

Ladies Who Carried Him in Their Arms and Negro Who "Toted" Him In Infancy See Him.

Staunton, Va., Dec. 28.—Staunton is on the map today. The President-to-be of the United States was 56 years old and he was spending the day in the town where he was born. Hardly one of the 12,000 inhabitants pretended to do anything but walk the streets, cheer the hero of the hour, blow horns and in every other imaginable way demonstrated the delight they felt at harboring so distinguished a guest on an occasion that means as much to him as to them.

Not one of the 25,000 visitors from all parts of the Old Dominion, which has now given the nation eight presidents, thought of anything but the joy of today's event, whose sentiment knit the big crowds in unision of happiness. Fro mthe moment he appeared after spending the night in the house where he was born—the old manse where his father, Joseph R. Wilson lived when a Presbyterian minister. here—Governor Wilson displayed the keenest pleasure in his visit. This was especially marked when he was greeted by Frank T. Ware, the old negro servant who "toted" him around Staunton or pushed him in his baby carriage when he was two years old. Ware still lives here and is a well-to-do, respected darkey.

An unexpectedly happy incident of the governor's visit was arranged by Dr. Fraser, who managed to squeeze into the busy forenoon schedule a visit to a sanitorium in the county where Mrs. Elizabeth Kayser, an aged woman suffering from paralysis, was anxiously awaiting to see the man whom she remembered as a 2-year-old baby that she had often trotted on her knee. She was an intimate friend of the Wilson family and frequently took care of "Tommy", the baby when his mother wanted to get away for an hour or two.

Two other women of Staunton, Mrs. P. L. Hoover, and Miss Amanda Felts boasted of having held the President elect in their arms when he was a baby. After he returned from his call on Mrs. Kayser, it was planned to have them visit him at the manse.

Governor Wilson's day was scheduled to a close with public reception this afternoon and a banquet tonight. He planned to leave for Princeton tomorrow afternoon.

ADMITS HE KISSED GIRL.

Rev. W. J. Hubbard Denies Serious Charges Against Him.

Charleston, W. Va., Dec. 28.—Yesterday was consumed in the preliminary hearing before Justice U. B. Atkinson in the state against Rev. W. J. Hubbard, former superintendent of the Davis Child Shelter in this city, charged with having had improper relations with 11-year-old Goldie Portia Hylton, a ward of the institution. The state asked for a continuance until today in order to secure additional evidence.

The matron, nurses and servants evinced strong prejudice against the former superintendent. It was admitted that the little girl had been offered a present if she would tell who had mistreated her. Some of the witnesses swore the offer was made before and others after the girl had mentioned the name of Hubbard.

Rev. Hubbard emphatically denied the specific charge, but admitted he had kissed the girl as he had other children in the institution, all of whom he said, he treated as if they were his own children. All the witnesses admitted on cross-examination that the alleged indiscretions had taken place in the parlor, which was the office of the superintendent, the doors of which were always open.

Rev. Nelson P. Dame, the Evangelist of Virginia, will preach at Christ Church tomorrow at the 11 o'clock service.

MME. LUIS F. COREA

Mme. Luis F. Corea, who recently attended the wedding of her brother, Robert V. Fleming, in Washington, is an American and at the age of eighteen was married to the Nicaraguan minister to Washington despite the protests of her family. He was Zelaya's representative, and at the end of the Zelaya regime left the diplomatic service.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

E. E. Downham has been elected representative to the Imperial Council of the Mystic Shrine by Acca Temple for 13th consecutive term.

The funeral of John W. Smith will be held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon from his home, 131 north Payne street The services will be conducted by Rev. C. R. Strausburg, pastor of the M. P. Church.

POLICE COURT

(Justice H. B. Caton, Presiding.)

Henry Stevens, colored, charged with assaulting Peter Snellings with a knife, was held to await the action of the grand jury.

Joseph Mills, charged with disorderly conduct, was dismissed.

Arthur Mankin, charged with disorderly conduct, forfeited his collateral by failing to appear.

William Greene, colored, charged with assaulting Malinda Level, colored, was fined $20.

JOYOUS CELEBRATION.

The Methodist Protestant Sunday School at their Christmas celebration last night gave a cantata entitled "Santa Claus's Double" which was happily rendered by 35 members of the school. The decorations were handsome and reflected great credit on those who had charge of them. Stockings, containing candy, nuts, and fruits, were distributed to each member of the school. The teachers and scholars were the recipients of many presents. The superintendent was presented with a silver mounted silk umbrella, and the pastor with a well-filled purse. Norman Roberts, Julia Lindsey and Elizabeth Deeton were presented with gold medals for excellent work, and 25 scholars received prizes for regular atendance.

RECEPTION LAST NIGHT.

Splendid Program Carried Out by Alexandria Lodge of Elks.

The reception tendered by Alexandria Lodge of Elks last night to the ladies was a pronounced success. From eight to nine o'clock there was an informal reception and from nine to ten a musicale which was opened by an address of welcome by Exalted Ruler Robert S. Barrett and consisted of solos by Mrs. Nedley, of Washington, and Mr. Kenneth Ogden, of Alexandria, piano solo by Miss Ella Hill, recitation by Mrs. Barrett and selections by the Shubert quartette.

Refreshments were served in the rathskeller and a dance completed the evening's entertainment.

LABOR MEN ARE DECLARED GUILTY

Daniel Buckley and Herman Seiffert Dismissed of Charges.

OFFICERS ARE IN JAIL.

Marshall Takes Charge of All The Defendants—Convicted Men Will Take an Appeal.

Indianopolis, Ind., Dec. 28.—Amid silence broken only by the monotonous voice of the court clerk, 38 of the 40 union labor men on trial here since October 1, heard themselves declared guilty of conspiracy to transport explosives illegally.

Daniel Buckley, of Davenport, Ia., and Herman Seiffert, of Milwaukee, were the only men freed.

The verdict tore a jagged hole in the organization of the International Ironworkers' Union because it put their principal officers, including President Frank M. Ryan in jail.

John T. Butler, of Buffalo, first vice president, Phillip Cooley, of New Orleans, and Michael Young, of Boston, members of the executive board were among the other officers imprisoned.

Court adjourned until Monday morning, when it was believed the men would be given an opportunity to appeal which was refused them today.

President Ryan of the Ironworkers Union said:

"This will not crippie the union. The work will be done just the same under other officers in case an appeal is unavailing from this verdict."

Marshall Schmidt announced to the defendants that he would give those whose wives are here an opportunity to talk and visit hem, the day before they are to be sentenced.

Marshall Schmidt was ordered to take charge of the defendants. All spectators were ordered out of the room.

The wife of Frank J. Painter, of Omaha, was led fainting from the courtroom.

VIRGINIANS AFTER OFFICE.

Many Applicants For Western District Collectorship.

There is a merry little fight in Virginia for the appointment of a collector of Internal Revenue for the Western District of that State. The Ninth District wants the place as does Congressman C. C. Carlin for the Eighth.

C. C. Cochran, of Big Stone Gap, is being advanced by his friends, among whom is R. Tate Irvine, one of the Wilson leaders. General Rufus A. Ayres, who was a candidate for Congress in the Ninth, is also mentioned for the place. State Senator George L. Fletcher, of Fauquier county, is said to be a receptive aspirant. He is one of Congressman Carlin's close political friends.

The office of Collector of Internal Revenue pays $4,500. Other offices connected with the collectorship run up the perequisite to $60,000. The holders of the latter offices are under civil service, and there is doubt whether they can be removed.

It is the concensus of opinion that Richard Evelyn Byrd, Speaker of the House of Delegates, will get the district attorneyship. The salary of this office is $4,500. Sofar the applicants for the United States marshalship are not active. This office pays $4,000. There are about 20 or 30 deputies, who make in fees from $2,000 to $1,000. These are not under civil service.

DIED.

JOHNW W., son of the late Calvin A. and Luvenia Smith, died at the Alexandria Hospital Wednesday, December 25, at 10 P. M. Funeral from his late home, 131 N. Payne street, Sunday, December 29, at 3 P. M. (Washington and Baltimore papers please copy.)

A precious one from use has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.
—By His Sister.

Edward Johnson, 59 years of age, born in Liverpool, England, who has made his home with the family of J.B. Truax died this morning after a stroke of apoplexy. He will be buried at Woodlawn, Monday afternoon.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

News of the massacre of men, women and children, composing virtually the entire population of a native village on the Island of Papua, was received at Sidney, N. S. W., yesterday. The village is some distance from the capital of the Island and the massacre took place while Lemma natives were passing through it en route to their own settlement. The Lemmas attacked the villagers, resorting to terrible cruelties.

The career of Pink Maddox, a reputed "bad man" as "boss of the town" was brought to a sudden end by a posse of officers late at Oak Grove, La., Maddox had killed a deputy and terrorized Oak Grove by his reckless shooting. Maddox had vowed to celebrate the Yuletide by "running" the town. When he began to shoot the majority of the inhabitants took to cover. Deputy Marshal L. E. Ray attempted to arrest Maddox, but was mortally stabbed. Maddox then took a horse, rode off, but he encountered a posse of officers, and in the battle that followed the desperado was killed.

While playing Indian and cowboy, in New Orleans yesterday, Joseph Howell, aged twelve killed his five-year-old brother, Henry. "You're just playing dead; I'll kill you sure enough," said Joseph, placing a shotgun against the child's head, which was blown off. "I never want to see Joseph again." said the boy's father. "I don't care what becomes of him."

The body of F. Longnecker, a fur dealer, of Cincinnati, was found on an island in the Ohio river a mile from Paducah, Ky. The head was eaten off by hogs. It is supposed he was murdered by shanty boatmen for some valuable furs he had. Screams were heard coming from the island a few nights ago by dwellers on shore.

A record for quick justice in the District of Columbia, was set yesterday when within forty hours of his alleged crime Nathaniel Green, colored, was held by the grand jury on two indictments. One of the indictments has as its extreme penalty, in case of conviction, the gallows. Green is the negro accused of attacking Mrs. Adelaide Grant on Christmas night. The first indictment against Green charges felonious assault. Conviction on this charge carries with it thirty years in the pententiary, or death, if the jury sees fit to recommend capital punishment. The second indictment charges unsuccessful attempt. Fifteen years is the penalty for conviction. Green was arraigned before Judge Mullowny in Police Court yesterday morning and held for further hearing without bail.

Driven about by a seventy-mile gale in a sea so rough that the lifesavers cannot launch their boats, a big schooenr was afire last night twelve miles southeast of Block Island. At a late hour the United States revenue cutter Seneca, called to the scene of the wreck by wireless, was sighted by the life-savers six miles from the burning vessel and making a hard fight to reach her through the high seas. The Seneca is sweeping the water with her searchlights for the schooner's small boats, in which the schooner's crew may have put off.

The jury in the labor dynamiting case in Indianapolis, balloted all yesterday on the fate of the forty labor chiefs under indictment without reaching a verdict. A long session of the jury is predicted, as it has been reported that the jury is voting on each of the 52 counts in the indictment. This would mean the casting of 2,080 ballots for the forty prisoners.

William Wheeler and John and Elsie Barnes, children of prominent families in the winter colony at Coden, Ala., who disappeared from their homes last Friday, and were given up as lost, were found yesterday floating in the Gulf of Mexico in an open boat. The children were nearly starved, and were in a serious condition from drinking salt water. On Christmas Day they landed on a barren island and caught a fish and some crabs which they ate raw.

Former Representative Alvah A. Clark died yesterday at his home in Somerville, N. J., of pneumonia. He was elected to Congress in 1876, and was re-elected for the following term.

The Norwegian bark Sterna, bound from Gulfport, Miss., for Rio Janeiro, Brazil, has gone down at sea with all hands on board.

MORE HOPEFUL OF PEACE AGREEMENT

Counter Proposals of Turkey Are Kept Secret by Conference.

AUSTRIA'S ATTITUDE.

Not Demobilizing and Preparing to Insist on Obtaining Some Turkish Territory.

London, Dec. 28.—Today's brief session of the peace conference went further toward getting down to the actual business of the negotiations than any previous meeting, according to Dr. Daneff, chief of the Bulgarian plenipotentiaries.

"I am more hopeful of a peace agreement satisfactory to all concerned, than I was before the meeting this morning." Dr. Daneeff said soon after adjournment had been taken until Monday.

"The counter-proposals of the Turks are secret, but I may say that the Turks are only following the traditions in their Oriental slowness."

It was not denied that the Ottoman terms were about to be published several days ago.

The forecasted terms of the Porte include the retention by Turkey of Turkey in Europe east of a line from Midia on the Black Sea to the Gulf of Saros, including Adrianople; autonomous government use suerainty of the Sultan for all Europe and Turkey west of the proposed line; an Aegean commercial outlet for Bulgaria and no war indemnity to be paid to Turkey.

Advices from all parts of the continent persisted that Austria-Hungary were not mobolizing her military reservists and was preparing to insist on obtaining, in the partition of Turkey in Europe, additional territory on the Adriatic.

ACCA TEMPLE.

Richmond, Dec. 28.—All the old officers of Acca Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, were re-elected last night at the annual meeting of the order. After the routine business of the evening was over a big banquet was served which offered an occasion of holiday greetings, as the members enjoyed the good things to eat

Acca Temple has a membership of over 1, 600 and there is only one other organization of the kind in Virginia, which is at Norfolk.

The entire roster of officers as re elected last night is composed of D. C. O'Flaherty, illustrous potentate; C. Jeter Jones, illustrious chief rabban; Thomas Whittet illusrous high priest and prophet: Edward A. Evans, illustrious assitant rabban; R. McC. Bullington, illustrious Oriental guide; John F. Mayer, illustrous treasurer; Charles A. Nesbit, illustrious recorder.

The following officers will be reappointed for the coming year. Clinton L. Williams, illustrous first ceremonial master; J. Garland Hood, illustrious second ceremonial master; James H. Price, illustrious marshal; J. C. Bowman, illustrious captain of the guard; Oscar J. Adams, illustrious director; James T. Hill, L. W. McVeigh, H. B. Weisiger and Nathan Simon, illustrious assistant directors; S. H. Bowman and H. Theodore Ellyson, alchembists; George Keesee, captain of the patrol; James Pamplin, property man and electrician.

As representatives to he imeprial council, Preston Belvin, E. E. Downham, D. C. O'Flaherty, and George L. Street were re-elected, and George E. Bagby was chosen a new representative. Leon Wallerstein was reelected for another three years' term as trustee. James M. Clift and Preston Belvin are the two remaining trustees.

Murderer Captured.

La Grange, Ind., Dec. 28.—Edward Hart, who shot and killed his wife and her mother at the latter's home here, early today, was captured a few hours later and is now a prisoner in the local jail. Mrs. Rena Hart, his wife, 20 years old, from whom he was separated, was awakened by the shot that killed Mrs. Sarah McBride, her mother as the latter slept.

Hart killed his wife as she tried to escape. Their baby, in Mrs. McBride's house, was left unharmed.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

Alexandria Washington Lodge, Virginia Consistory and Brotherhood of Railway Carmen Meet

Last night, which is known as St. John's night, was observed in Alexandria by Alexandria-Washington Lodge of Masons, which has its stated communication and election of officers every year on this date. The old lodge, which had for its first master, General George Washington, has only two stated communications outside of the regular Thursday nights on which meetings are held. One takes place on St. John's night and the other falls on February 22, the birthday of their first master.

At last night's meeting the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: S. W. Pitts, worshipful master; C. B. Swan, senior warden; Charles E. Tenneson, junior warden; E. Edward Shinn; treasurer; A. G. Uhler, secretary; C. Page Waller, jr., senior deacon; W. H. Charles, junior deacon; Claude W. Fletcher, and W. B. Davis, stewards; Rev. P. P. Phillips, Rev. W. J. Morton and Rev. W. F. Watson, chaplains; George W. Zachary, tiler.

The officers were installed by Dr. William M. Smith, past master of Alexandria-Washington Lodge.

At the conclusion of the meeting the newly elected officers were entertained by the new worshipful master at his residence on south Royal street. Mr. Pitts received two very handsome bouquets from members of the lodge.

At a meeting of Virginia Consistory, No. 2, Scottish Rite Masons held last night, the following officers were elected: George T. Burroughs, master of Kadosh; Thomas C. Smith, prior; Percy E. Clift, preceptor; Nevell S. Greenaway, chancellor; W. S. Connelly, master of state; James E. King, hospitaler; Vernon A. Slaughter, registrar; James M. Duncan, treasurer; Charles B. ACTIVITY OF OLD BOREAS

High Northwest Winds Prevail Most of Last Night No Serious Damage Resulted

The weather, which had been rainy and disagreeable, was followed yesterday morning by clearing conditions, and early in the afternoon the wind, which had veered to the northwest, gathered force and towards the close of the day was driving people indoors.

Conditions after dark showed no change, and the wind came in heavy flaws througout most of the night.

While the gale was at its height early in the night an alarm of fire was sounded, and the fire apparatus proceeded to the northwestern section of the city, where the roof of a house was burning. Considerable apprehension was experienced in the neigborhood, it being feared that the firemen would be unable, in the teeth of the high wind, to confine the fire and extinguish it before it could spread. The members of the department, however, ever equal to the occasion, succeeded in subduing the flames after having fought them for some time.

The steamer Southland from Norfolk was about an hour late in reaching this port this morning on account of head winds.

The wind this morning had changed to the south and conditions were tranquil.

SENT TO THE GRAND JURY.

Henry Stevens, colored, who made a murderous attack on Peter Snellings, a well-known grocer, on December 17th, was held for the action of the grand jury by Police Justice Caton, in the Police Court this morning. Snellings, whose ear was severed and throat cut was able to leave the hospital for the first time today. He described the assault made on him by Stephens, and said that it was entirely unprovoked. Stephens entered a plea of self-defense.

ACCUSED DISMISSED.

The case of a saloonkeeper, alleged to have furnished liquor to Patrick Buckley, the youth who was found dead in the yard of the Braddock House recently, came up in the Corporation Court this morning. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

MARKET.

There was but the bare suggestions of a market this morning. But a corporal's guard of country people were on hand, which is generally the case on the Saturday folowing Christmas. Prices of the small amount of produce exhibited showed no change from those prevailing during the week.

FIRE LAST NIGHT.

The alarm of fire about 6:30 o'clock last night was caused by a blaze in the house occupied by John Wells, 224 north Alfred Street. The fire started on the top floor, which was a sort of an attic. Its origin is unknown, although it is thought that a defective flue was responsible for the blaze. The fire got under the eaves of the roof and the firemen experienced considerable difficulty in subduing it ,the work requiring an hour. The upper floors of the house, together with the effects, were considerably damaged by water. The house is owned by Miss Fanny Dixon. The loss on the house is covered by insurance.

Serious riots have taken place in the last two days at Bilson and Koeniggratz, in Bohemia, on the occasion of the departure of military detachments from the towns. Angry crowds blocked the streets leading to the railway stations in an attempt to prevent the troops entraining and also pelted the army officers with stones. The rioters were dispersed only after the military had charged with fixed bayonets. Several persons on both sides were wounded.

NEWS OF THE OLD DOMINION.

WILSON AND THE PHILIPPINES.

Said to Favor Congressman Jones' Phillippine Bill.

Staunton, Va., Dec. 28.—President-elect Wilson favors a provisional government for the Philippines for eight years and independence thereafter, according to Representative William A. Jones, of Virginia, chairman of the House Insular Affairs Committee, who discussed the Philippine situation with him on the train yesterday.

The President-elect announced merely that he had talked with Mr. Jones "about the general situation in the Philippines." Asked particularly if he had discussed the bill being pressed by Representative Jones in Congress proposing a provisional government for eight years and independence afterwards, Mr. Wilson replied:

"Oh, we talked about that at Sea Girt last summer."

Representative Jones, however, had no hesitancy in saying that Governor Wilson already had heartily indorsed to him the pending bill.

"We really don't expect the measure to pass this Congress," said Mr. Jones, "but it surely will go through in the extra session and will be one of the first pledges of the Democratic national platform to be carried out."

BROOKLYNITES COMING.

Party of Teachers, En Route To Virginia.

New York, Dec. 28.—Twenty-six Brooklynites left New York Thursday afternoon for Old Point Comfort, Norfolk and Richmond on board the Old Dominion steamship Princess Anne on a trip under the auspices of the Brooklyn Teachers' Association, of which most of the voyagers are members.

The trip was arranged by Oliver C. Mordorf, chairman of the excursion committee of the association, and he accompanied the party. The steamer is expected to arrive at Old Point Comfort today. The day will be spent there at Fortress Monroe.

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon the party will proceed to Norfolk, where it will spend Saturday, with an afternoon oyster roast at Cape Henry and inspection of Virginia Beach.

Sunday will be spent in Richmond, the day being given up to the inspection of the old Confederate capital with its relics of the civil war. Monday the excursionists will sail down the James River to Norfolk and embark that day for home, arriving in New York on the afternoon of New Year's Eve.

Every Christmas a party of Brooklyn school teachers takes this trip to Virginia, but the party this year is much larger than heretofore.

Wound Proves Fatal.

Blacksburg, Va., Dec. 28.—Hugh N. Faulkner, thirty-eight years old, assistant mechanic in the arts shop, department at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, who was accidentally shot two weeks ago by J. G. Price while the two were hunting near Blacksburg, died at the Jefferson Hospital at Roanoke Thursday night. The wound was not considered serious at first, but blood-poisoning developed with further complications of a week heart. Mr. Faulkner is survived by his wife, three young children, of Blacksburg; his parents, three brothers, and one sister, residing in Ashland, Ky. The funral will be held here Saturday.

DINES NEGRO SERVANTS.

Wealthy Family Amazes Citizens of Macon, Ga.

Macon, Ga., Dec. 28.—Callers at the magnificent home of Mr. and Mrs. William McEwen Johnston, on Georgia avenue, Thursday night were amazed to find the host and hostess busily engaged in the entertainment of 24 negroes, men and women. They were told that Mr. and Mrs. Johnston were giving a party to their negro servants and some of the latter's friends.

This is the first time that an affair of this kind has ever been in Macon and it has caused a sensation.

Mr. Johnston is Macon's wealthiest citizen and Mrs. Johnston is one of the leaders of Middle Georgia society. Mr. Johnston formerly lived in New York city and is a nephew of the late Richard Wilson, of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnston received their guests in the large reception hall, which was beautifully decorated throughout. Many beautiful records on the phonograph were enjoyed and as they played the old-fashioned songs the voices of the negroes joined in the chorus. During the evening eggnogg and other refreshments were served.

PROFITS BY REVELS.

Richmond Police Court Collects $1,235 Fines in Two Days.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 28.—All records for one day's assessments in police court here were broken Wednesday morning, when Justice Crutchfield extracted $810 penalties from the pockets of Christmas revelers. At least this was the amount of the fines imposed,but not all by any means were settled. With the $425 of fines imposed by the Justice Thursday morning, Christmas netted the city $1,325 this year from holiday misbehaviour.

Although arrests were fewer this Christmas than for many a year, the Police Justice handed out the limit of the law for persons guilty of carrying concealed weapons, and of firing pistols in the streets. A total of 116 prisoners were arraigned in Police Court in the two days; sixty-three Christmas morning and 33 Thursday.

Twelve cases involving concealed weapons were heard. Two were dismissed,five fined $100 two $50, and $10 and one $25. The Sergeants desk in Police Court looked like an arsenal. Justice Crutchfield announced his intention of breaking up the practice of "toting guns" during the Christmas holidays, and gave his first blows in the last two days.

Teamster Fatally Hurt.

Blacksburg, Va., Dec. 28.—"Bob" Smith, 30 years old, a teamster, employed at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, is in a dying condition at the Jefferson Hospital in Roanoke as the result of a pistol wound inflicted by Ballard Bishop, while the two men were together just inside the town lim its late Christmas Day. Bishop, who was seated on his horse, with Smith standing by, fired once into the air, and putting his pistol in his pocket there was a second shot,bullet going through his leg and entering Smith's left breast with probably fatal results. He was taken at once to the hospital at Roanoke for surgical treatment.

Bishop was not seriously hurt and was arrested and put under bond pending the outcome of Smith's injury.

HORSES KILLED BY FEVER.

Farmers in Washington and Allegany Counties Lose $20,000.

An epidemic of forage fever in Washington and Allegany counties was reported yesterday by State Veterinarian Hickman. Dr. Hickman has just returned from these counties and reports that farmers there within the last few days have reported the death of 75 horses from the disease.

The loss to the farmers will amount to more than $20,000, inasmuch as many of the animals were prize winners.

The fever, according to Dr. Hickman was contracted through the feeding of fermented ensilage. This is fodder chopped fine and stored in silos. It is intended more as a food for cattle, and Dr. Hickman advised the farmers to discontinue giving it to horses.

PETERSBURG STORE ROBBED.

Burglars Get Contents of Rodgers, McCabe & Co.'s Sales.

Petersburg, Va., Dec. 28.—The store of Rodgers, McCabe & Co., commission merchants, was robbed Thursday night. The iron safe had been only half locked, and the robbers carried off a box containing about $20,000 in bonds and other securities, $40 in money and a diamond ring valued at $175, the property of Frank T. Plummer, manager of the company, and a lot of jewelry belonging to Mr. McCabe.

All but $3,000 of the bonds and securities were found today near the track of the Atlantic Coast Line Railway. The police arrested several negoes on suspicion of being implicated in the robbery.

Boy Fatally Wounded.

Roanoke, Va., Dec. 28.—Thinking that a forty-eight-calibre revolver was unloaded Fred Manning, fourteen-year old son of J. S. Manning, was fatally wounded Tuesday morning when the weapon fired, the bullet passing through the right side of his stomach. He died Thursday in a Roanoke hospital.

The boy, who lived with his mother near Cave Spring, was cleaning the gun, while several other boys, were near The bullet, after passing through his body, fell on the floor beside him.

SUICIDE OF A DOCTOR.

Laudanum, Gas and Pistol, Provided For Tragedy.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 28.—Despondent over his failures it is said Dr. Valdemir Ulrich, of 211 West Grace street, shot himself through the heart at 12:43 o'clock Thursday morning. His wife was down stairs at the time, and she heard the report of the revolver. She knew, evidently, buy intuition, what had happened and telephoned for the city ambulance. The man was dead when the ambulance arrived.

From the evidence found surrounding him he had prepared quietly and with forethought for his death. He had turned on the gas in his private room, and had provided himself with a bottle of laudanum. The drug was found to have been unused. Ulrich shot himself through the heart while lying in bed. His body tumbled out, and was found by his wife lying on the floor.

Ulrich was about 54 years old. He had threatened it was stated to the police and coroner, several times before to commit suicide.

His Skull Fractured.

Harrisonburg, Va., Dec. 28.—Kicked by a horse, Elbert Life, of Keezletown, lay eight hours Saturday suffering with a broken nose and fractured skull before a physician could be secured. Though badly injured Life will recover. Fifteen months ago, his brother, Ellis Life, fell under a huge road roller and was crushed to death.

Suffering With Stab Wound.

Gloucester Courthouse, Va., Dec. 28.—A telegram from St. Vincent's Hospital, in Norfolk, has been received in Gloucester announcing the critical condition of B. S. Rowe, who was cut in the abdomen on Saturday forenoon by Emmett Williams. Rowe, who, together with Williams and several others, most of whom had been drinking, was on Rowe's boat, near Brown's Wharf, when Rowe expostulated with him for using insulting language to an older man on the boat. Williams drew his knife and cut Rowe in the abdomen. Rowe was put almost immediately in a gasoline launch and taken to Norfolk for treatment. Williams has been bailed to appear for trial in the Circuit Court of Gloucester in January.

Child Fatally Burned.

Roanoke, Va., Dec. 28.—Terrill, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hugh Sigman, was fatally burned Monday morning at the home near Ballinhack, and is dead.

Mrs. Sigman had occasion to leave the house Monday morning to attend to her duties, and asked the little fellow if he cared to accompany her. He said he would stay in and take care of an infant brother until his mother returned. Soon afterward Mrs. Sigman heard the child's screams and rushed into the house and found that his clothing had become ignited from an open fire. Everything possible was done for the child, but he had been so badly burned that he died.

DEMOCRATS IN ACCORD.

From time to time during the last five or six weeks there have been rumors of serious dissention among the Democratic leaders of the House and Senate, and on each of these occasions grave forecasts have been made as to the support which President Wilson might expect from the capitol end of Pennsylvania Avenue.

For a while these rumors merely involved the leadership of Congress. They had to do with the reorganization of the two bodies without affecting one way or another President Wilson or members of his cabinet.

At first the report was that Speaker Champ Clark and Majority Leader Underwood were about to clutch each other by the throat and break up much of the furniture of the House of Representatives in a battle for supremacy in the lower chamber of Congress.

Then came the story that the northern Congressmen who hold over would organize a combine with the northern Congressmen just elected to demand more chairmanships and more advantageous committee assignments when the next House is organized. This report was inspired by the fact, it is said, that Southern Democrats now hold substantially all of the big committee chairmanships.

Next the rumor gained currency that the State progressives in the Democratic caucus were quietly organizing to overthrow the conservatives and to grasp the party machinery in that body. These progressives, it was alleged, were fearful lest the conservatives deliver the Senate into the hands of the reactionary interests of the country.

While this story was being digested along came another to the effect that Senator Martin of Virginia, was about to be deposed as the Senate floor leader, that Senator Simmons would fail to get the finance committee chairmanship and that sundry other Senators of long standing would be cast out of high places in the party organization.

Now certain terrified people come to the bat with the statement that William J. Bryan is to be the Secretary of States and is, therefore, grooming himself to run the House and Senate to run President Wilson and to dominate the whole Democratic outfit.

If the latest alarm has no more foundation than the vagaries that have gone before it, the Democratic party is saved once more and the country is reasonably sure of a harmonious administration during the four years to come.

To go back a bit: Clark and Underwood have never been at serious odds. They have not been as enthusiastic about each other as they might have been since the Underwood delegates at Baltimore went over to Wilson, but they have not drawn their guns on each other. Each has his own position of honor and responsibility in the House organization and neither is willing to swap it for any other.

As for the reported line-up of the Northern Democrats against the Southern members, this has gone no further than the publication of tables showing that there will be more Congressmen from States above the Mason and Dixon line than below it. If any serious resentment is felt at the fact that Southern Congressmen are being rewarded for long service, no tangible sign of it has come to the surface.

On the Senate side the party division has amounted so far to little more than the ineffectively promoted by interests hostile to the Democratic party. There was an informal conference of Senate progressives. This conference did not result in a general discussion of the situation in the last caucus of Democratic Senators and it did bring about a measure of action.

Instead of producing discord, however, the caucus action resulted in a compromise. This compromise provides that Senator Martin shall remain floor leader in the next Congress, but he will be shorn of the power to name the committees of the next Senate. These committees will be appointed by a steering committee, itself to be elected by the caucus. This is all there was to the senate "uprising."

As for the alarmist's talk that Bryan's acceptance of a cabinet position would force Clarke and Underwood to unite to combat him, this appears to be without any foundation whatever. There is not one Democratic leader in a hundred who does not believe that Bryan could do more good in than out of the Wilson cabinet; that he would promote more harmony by becoming a member of the official family of the next President than by viewing the acts of the next administration from afar.

And the friends of both the speaker and Mr. Underwood say that they entertain just exactly the view of the matter.

The truth is, there has been little conflict between the party elements up to this time.

DEATH OF OLD "NED."

(Communicated.)

Companionship is the greatest boon to happiness—no matter who we take into our confidence and make an associate. Constant contact gives birth to love and admiration, whether it be with the meek and lowly of earth or the great masters of finance. Even if our affections are centered in an animal the loss of him would mean a great deal. But poor old "Ned," the lovable horse owned by our esteemed friend—Mr. George K. Pickett—is no more. The roads he traversed, the streets he traveled will know him no more forever. Whether in the blinding snow or arctic gale of winter, whether in the floods of early spring, or in the torrid heat of summer or in the fall when the leaves were shedding forth their glory as they covered the earth, old "Ned" pursued the even tenor of his way and conveyed his load of precious freight to and from home. His familiar form was as welcome as the flowers in May and his death is the source of great sadness. He was only a dumb brute—no, we cannot say dumb—for he had the intelligence gained by daily association with his master and family and he knew as well what to do and the route to travel even some times better than his owner. We sympathize with Mr. Pickett in the great loss he has sustained and feel sure he will never get another to fill the place in his heart as did old "Ned." Everybody knew the faithful animal and his even step and gentleness will not soon be forgotten.

President-elect today will be one of the great features of the festival. The Staunton streets have been strung for blocks with incandescent bulbs, and gas arc lamps, flags and bunting were in evidence on business blocks and private houses; and streets have been flushed and scrubbed and swept for the passing of the parade.

Plans that had been made for an "Old Virginia dinner" have been abandoned. Efforts will be made to protect Governor Wilson as fully as possible from exposure or inclement weather that might endanger his health.

Nick Wilburn, a young farmer, has confessed that on December 12th, he shot and killed James King, a wealthy Jones county, Ga., farmer, as the result of an offer of $600 made to him by Mrs. King. In consequence of his statements she has been arrested. On December 13, Kings body was found in the woods near Round Oak, a dog keeping guard beside the corpse. The man's gun was in his hand, and it was thought he had killed himself. An inquest decided he had been shot by "unknown parties."

Two persons were burned to death and six were injured by jumping from windows yesterday when fire broke out in a business block in North Main street, Los Angeles, Cal. A number of persons were in the upper rooms and their escape was cut off by the flames. Firemen carried a number of persons down ladders and some of the firemen had narrow escapes.

VIRGINIA.

At a Corporation Court of the City of Alexandria, continued and held at the Court House of said city on Saturday, December 7th, 1912.

Present Hon. Louis C. Barley, Judge.

Ruth E. Dent
vs. In Chancery.
Robert L. Dent.

Upon the application of the complainant, stating specifically the last known place of abode of the defendant, the Court on the 7th day of December, 1912, doth grant the following order of publication.

The object of this suit is to obtain a suit of decree absolutely divorcing the complainant, Ruth E. Dent, from the defendant, Robert L. Dent, on the ground of wilful desertion and abandonment without lawful cause or excuse, on the part of the defendant, for more than three years prior to the institution of this suit. An affidavit having been made and filed that the defendant, Robert L. Dent, cannot be found within the jurisdiction of the State of Virginia, and that he is a non-resident of said State; here within fifteen days after due publication of the said order and do what is necessary to protect his interest in this suit.

And it is further ordered, that a copy of the said order be published once a week for four successive weeks in the Alexandria Gazette, a newspaper published in the City of Alexandria, Virginia; that a copy be posted at the front door of the Court House of said city on or before the 16th day of December, 1912, that being the next rule day after this order is entered, and that a copy of the said order of publication shall be sent by registered mail by the Clerk of said court to the non-resident defendant at 726 Greenmount Avenue, Baltimore, Md., his last known place of abode.

CROSS STITCH DESIGN

GOOD WAY BY WHICH TROUBLE MAY BE AVOIDED.

Precaution That Frequently Will Save the Necessity of Doing the Entire Work Over Again — Having Proper Canvas Is Important.

The most careful counter of threads is liable to unpleasant surprises when the end or corner or a cross-stitch thread may ruin an entire design and the work will have to be done again.

There are two ways to avoid this trouble. If the finished piece need not be exact in measurements lay the hem along one side and end. Begin in the angle this formed and work the sides as far as desired, stopping when there is no more room to repeat the pattern and add the hem.

Return to the angle and work the end in the same way. Then lay the other two hems and the rest of the design is accurately fitted.

When the finished piece must be a given size, start the design from each end and work toward the middle. If there is a discrepancy it is easy to make up a connecting figure that will look intentional. Treat the ends in the same way.

The secret of good cross-stitching is to have the cross-stitch always slant in the same direction. To insure this mark the top of the work with a few stitches run in the hem. This makes mistakes in direction impossible. When the end and side are finished turn the piece entirely around and work the opposite direction, which gives the same general slant.

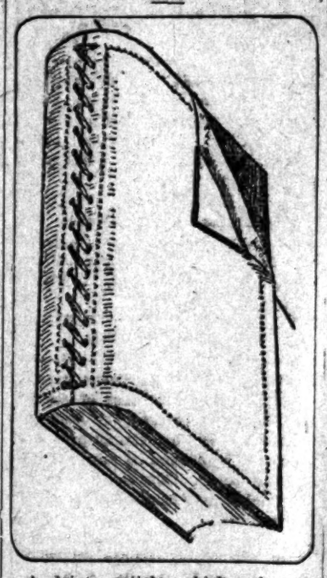
Much of the effect of cross-stitch work depends upon the canvas. It pays to get that specially prepared for this embroidery, as ordinary canvas is uneven, and may ruin the work. The imported canvas from Germany is best liked, as it is even, fine, and the threads pull easily.

For the fine work used in towels and other Empire designs choose a very fine canvas and a lightweight cotton. The results are far daintier than when bold, coarse, cross-stitching is done. With the right kind of canvas, this stitching may appear as exquisite as solid embroidery.

Do not attempt to do your cross-stitching directly on the material unless on certain very open mesh weaves. The threads are sure to be irregular, and the work will not be accurate, besides being hard on the eyes. The time taken to baste on bits of canvas and pull out threads when finished will be saved many times over in working.

Unless very proficient, do not attempt shaded cross-stitching without a colored pattern. These designs must be regular, and do not lend themselves to haphazard shading.

HANDKERCHIEF BOOK COVER



A dainty article, which only requires two handkerchiefs is a book cover. The handkerchiefs should be joined at one edge with narrow ribbon run through tiny eyelet holes worked just below the border, to form the back seam. These are then fitted over the volume by means of plain linen pockets embroidered upon the inner side and a portion of the top and bottom edges of the handkerchiefs, instead of being seamed to the outer portion, as is done in the case of coverings made from materials bought by the yard.

Paradise Plume.

The single paradise plume is much in demand as an evening coiffure ornament. Sometimes it is set off by a diamond star or some suitable jewel which forms the center of the circular band used as a bandeau for the hair. Some of the paradise plumes are placed on the front of the head in an upright fashion, while others are placed sidewise, allowing the plume to sweep gracefully over the ear and touch the shoulder.

Velveteen Gowns.

One-piece gowns of velveteen in the modish shades of taupe and brown are popular for hard usage, though some women find them too warm for wear under coats. A delightfully youthful model in beaver brown velveteen, made with the utmost simplicity, had for its only relieving note a big rolling collar on the Robespierre order, made of silk agario and bordered by a narrow band of beaver fur.

PLAYING THE GAME

By ENOCH KYLE.

The man was going to get married. He had sown his wild oats, and now he meant to settle down. Well off, good looking, a first rate sportsman, a favorite with men and women alike, the Fates spinning busily had smiled upon him at birth and had woven only gold threads in the woof of his life.

It was because he felt it incumbent upon him to play the game that he decided to tell the woman he was going to marry of a certain newly closed episode in his life. The consideration that perhaps it would be as well for her to hear the tale from him first-hand, instead of embroidered with lies on a foundation of truth, as she might hear it from some one else, may have counted for something, too.

But the reason he gave himself as he knotted his tie carefully before the mirror on the fateful morning of confession was that he "must play the game."

"I hardly know how to tell you, dear," he began awkwardly, standing tall and perfectly groomed on the hearthrug that afternoon. "It's so difficult to speak to women—pure women, like you—about certain things, but the fact of the matter is, I've been an awful rotter, Evelyn, and I feel it's up to me to own it. You're not marrying a saint, you know."

The fair-haired woman in the big armchair looked up at him sweetly out of innocent blue eyes: "Dear, I do know," she said gently.

He moved uncomfortably. "But it's just what you don't know," he told her, "that I'm worrying about. I'm not thinking of cards and racing, and things like that. It's about women I want to speak to you. Especially one woman." He paused and bit his lip nervously.

"Ah!" said the woman softly, looking down.

"She was a nice little thing," went on the man. "Not quite a lady, you know, but very pretty, and all that." . . . Her father drank. She ran away from home. Hadn't a friend in the world when I picked her up. Only the streets in front of her. A good woman like you, Evelyn, can't realize what the horror of that means. . . . I took a flat for her."

"Ah!" said the woman softly.

"I lived with her more or less for three years," went on the man, gathering courage from her passiveness. "She was very grateful for all I had done for her; she was really quite a nice little thing. But, of course, that's all over and done with now. I settled up finally with her today. I shall never see her again. There was no reason for you ever to know, Evelyn, only that I felt it wouldn't be quite playing the game not to tell you."

"What has become of the girl?" asked the woman, still softly and still looking away.

The man shrugged his shoulders. "Still in the flat, I presume," he said carelessly. "The rent is paid till December." His voice became persuasive. He bent down so that his face was very near the coils of hair wound smoothly round her head. "Don't let's talk about her any more," he urged. "It's all finished and done with. Now, don't frown, but just kiss me, and say you forgive me."

"You're a very naughty boy, Jack," said the woman reprovingly, but she let him wind her smooth white arms round his neck, as he knelt beside her on the floor. "Then if you promise never, never to do it again, I'll forgive you," she said prettily.

He caught her, flushed and smiling, to him fiercely. "My saint!" he breathed upon her mouth."

In a daintily furnished room of a little flat in Queen's Club Gardens a woman lay dead upon the bed with an empty phial in her hand. There were traces of tears upon her white, cold cheeks; her closed eyelids were swollen. Her lover had failed her. There was nothing between her but the streets.

So she, too, had "played the game." God will decide who played it best.

Handy Life Insurance Policy.

A curious festival takes place annually in the village of Isobe, in the southern province of Japan. The festival is called the Omita, and attracts large crowds from neighboring districts. The young men, stripping off their clothing, take their positions in a rice field, where they struggle violently with one another for possession of a decorated bamboo pole. The man who succeeds in pulling the pole down promptly cuts it into pieces, which he distributes among his less fortunate competitors, retaining a portion for himself. It is believed that if any one meets with a storm out at sea he can easily save himself from a watery grave by simply throwing a portion of this pole into the sea. With a handy life insurance policy of this kind to be obtained at the price of a little effort, it can be understood that the struggle for the pole is a distinctly strenuous one.—Wide World.

Some on the Doctor, Too.

A doctor who had a custom of cultivating the lawn and walk in front of his home every spring engaged O'Brien to do the job. He went away for three days and when he returned found O'Brien waiting for his money. The doctor was not satisfied with his work and said:

"O'Brien, the whole walk is covered with gravel and dirt and in my estimation it's a bad job."

O'Brien looked at him in surprise for a moment and replied:

"Shure, doc, there's many a bad job of yours covered with gravel and dirt."

ALL MOST HARMONIOUS

POINT TO BE REMEMBERED ABOUT DRESS ACCESSORIES.

Ornamental Handbags, for One Thing, Called For by the Season's Styles, May Be Easily and Cheaply Made at Home.

The variations of fashion are nowhere more noticeable than in the accessories of dress. Each season shows a great amount of thought given to the small details which combined produce a perfect costume. The entire effect of a handsome imported gown can be lost if the handbag does not harmonize with it.

To be strictly modish, one must carry handbags to match each gown. This is an expensive luxury to the woman who has to purchase every article of clothing; but to the clever needlewoman, who is the envy of her less talented sisters, it only means fascinating handwork to be done at odd moments. Many of the most expensive handbags can be duplicated at little expense. Moire, velvet and soft leather, if jeweled, braided or embroidered at home, compare very favorably with those sold in the exclusive shops.

From one of the oldest and best known jewelers on the Rue de la Paix come the attractive models illustrated here.

Old rose velvet is used to fashion the braided bag. The sample design is done with dull gold soutache braid.

A lining of old gold satin produces a pretty finish to this smart model. It copied in old gold velvet and braided with dull silver, this bag is equally attractive.

Especially lovely is the beaded bag of dark green velvet. Small steel beads are arranged in an artistic design. Strands of them form the fringe. Gray satin is used to line this bag. It is carried with a short but heavy cord of dark green silk. A novelty bag formed of a strip of corbeau-blue moire silk, would appeal to any woman. Silver gray taffeta forms the lining and silver tassels adorn the bottom.

This bag is attached to a clasp of dull silver and carried by means of a silver cord.

The same jeweler is showing old fashioned handbags of black moire antique with clasps of platinum studded with jewels in an elaborate filigree design. These clasps can be purchased at any shop and cover a wide range of prices. Handbags are always acceptable gifts. Any of your friends would appreciate a remembrance of this kind.

Dainty opera and fan bags can be made with little difficulty and furnish delightful work for the woman who enjoys plying her needle.

MOLESKIN STAYS IN FASHION

Not Until Spring Is It Likely That This Popular Fur Will Be Altogether Discarded.

Moleskin coats will also be much worn during the early part of the winter, but later will give place to furs of greater warmth and less perishable quality. Moleskin muffs, stoles, and toques will, however, remain in fashion until the spring.

These latter form delightful adjuncts to a cold weather wardrobe and will have as universal a fashion as ever. The list of furs destined to this service includes most of the smooth close pelts just mentioned, and in addition many of the full, long haired varieties that make such charmingly becoming neck wraps, if they are chosen with due regard to the complexion of the wearer.

There will be fox furs in all qualities and colors. Black and blue, which, strictly speaking is not blue at all, but the loveliest and most delicate shade of gray, are much to the fore, and represents the most flattering choice that a fair woman of fresh coloring can desire to wear.

Naturally opossum, newly returned to favor, fitch, fisher tail skunk, natural squirrel, and stone marten, often called the sable's nearest relative, will all be exploited in several new shapes, including a sort of modified pelerine for use with tailored walking dresses.

Mannish Shirts.

Soft materials are used for the mannish shirts which are fashioned with high, soft turn-over collars and cuffs and welted seams. The turn-over collars are quite high and button through at the front.

For Sewing and Reading The Rayo is recognized as the best lamp made. It gives a clear, steady light, soft and mellow; the ideal lamp, according to best authorities, for all work requiring close attention of the eyes (far superior to gas and electricity).

The Rayo Lamp

Lighted without removing chimney or shade. Easy to clean and rewick. Inexpensive. Economical. Made in various styles, and for all purposes.

JUVENILE ROBBER.

A few days ago a boy who gave his name as Charles Backley and who said he was from Richmond, applied to Mrs. Ada Lyles, 916 Duke street, for board. He told Mrs. Lyles he had worked in a silk mill in Richmond and had procured employment in the silk mill in this city. Mrs. Lyles arranged accommodations for the youngster and last night upon preparing to attend a Christmas entertainment invited the youth had taken a screwdriver and re- Backley declined, saying he was tired and preferred to remain at home. When she returned she found that the youth had take na screwdriver and removed the lock from the trunk of James Baker, a fellow boarder and secured $20, a pair of sleeve buttons and a pistol; also that he had taken Mrs. Lyle's watch, some money belonging to her and all her boy's clothing. She immediately notified the police. Backley is about 15 years old and stout.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

nteresting features were the electrical toys and the pretty prizes for the most successful nest-hunters were won by little Miss Josephine Gregg and Master Cary Marshall. The dancing of the little tots presented a dainty picture. The be-ribboned little Misses and the gay emblemed sleeves of the little lads, bobbing here and there in the one, two three furnished by the gay music of Miss Rebecca Heishley. When the dining room doors were thrown open the "oh's" and "ah's" of the children expressed their delight. The center piece was one huge brown bear laden with holly sprigs astride another brown bear in what seemed a jungle of holly.

At each place a peppermint stick tripod, suspending a peppermint basket, heaped with bonbons, brought forth great glee from the little folks, and the hour of seven came all too soon to the children present, who were little Misses Kittye Reid and Neal Knox, of Plains, Margaret French, Kathryn Leadbeater, Frances Marshall, Courtenay Marshall, Susan Thomson, Margaret Ogden, Laura Hulfish, Esher Lambert, Josephine Gregg and Masters Robert Cochran, Richard Kemper, Jacquelin Marshall, Cary Marshall, of Markham, Paul Barrett, Reid Dunn, Joel Leadbeater, Wilmer Kemper, Armstead Boothe, and Herbert Bryant.

SHE GAVE UP ALL HOPE

Physicians Failed To Help Mrs. Green, But She Finally Found Relief In Cardui.

Meetze, Va.—Mrs. J. C. Green of this place, says: "I suffered with womanly troubles so that I could hardly sit up. Two of the best doctors in our town treated me, and I tried different medicines, until I gave up all hope of ever getting well.

One day, I decided to try some Cardui. It did so much for me that I ordered some more, and it cured me! Today, I feel as well as I ever did in my life.

The pains and the trouble are all gone. I feel like another person in every way. I wish every sufferer could know what Cardui will do for sick women."

A few doses of Cardui at the right time, will save many a big doctor bill, by preventing serious sickness.

It tones up the nervous system, and helps make pale cheeks fresh and rosy.

Thousands of weak women have been restored to health and happiness by using Cardui. Suppose you try it.

It may be just the medicine you need.
